Allied Forces Are Hammering The Germans Again

Are Rewarded With Further Gains Along The Line Held By Crown Prince Ruprecht — Heavy Artillery Duels Thot To Presage Resumption Of Big Allied Offensive

(By Associated Press)

Both the British and French armies facing the Germans in Flanders have again struck hard blows at their antagonists and have been rewarded with further gains in the line of Crown Prince Rupprecht. While the fighting has occurred only on isolated sectors it seems evident that the artillery duels are forerunners of a resumption of the big allied offensive interrupted by rain more than a week ago.

Field Marshal Haig's men early Friday took German first line positions east of Hooge including the village Westhoek and held them in spite of counter attacks.

In the north near Bixfchoote the French troops have captured several farms held by the Germans and also have taken a number of machine guns from them.

The Canadians at the doorsteps of Lens. British forces are holding trenches south of Vimy ridge in the face of intensive shelling by the Germans.

Near St. Quentin the Germans delivered a surprise attack but were unsuccessful.

On Aisne front the Germans have attacked the French but here were also unsuccessful.

Aside from the front in France little fighting of moment is taking place except in Galicia, Bukowina and Southern Molgravia. In all these sectors the Teutons are declared to be continuing their gains.

LOCAL MEN ARE COMMISSIONED AT FORT BEN.

Appointment of officers from the Fort Benjamin Harrison reserve officers camp that will be of local interest are as follows:

Harry L. Rodgers, Coshocton, Second Lieutenant, Infantry section, officers reserve corps.

Arthur S. Thompson, Brinkhaven, Second Lieutenant, Field Artillery, National army.

S. Irvin Anderson, Coshocton, Second Lieutenant, Infantry section, U. S. army (regulars).

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., AUG. 10.—Altho some changes in the program planned for the "commencement" at Fort Benjamin Harrison, for the members of the officers' reserve corp training camp were necessary today because Secretary of War Baker was unable to attend, and Major General Barry, commanding the central department of the United States army, also was unable to be present, the principal features were carried out. There was a delay in the early part because Governor James M. Cox, of Ohio, did not arrive until late in the morning, and it was uncertain when to expect Governor A. O. Stanley of Kentucky. Governor John J. Cornwell of West Virginia was unable to attend. Governor James P. Goodrich of Indiana, arranged to spend the day at the fort. Approximately 12,000 men in many branches of the service passed in review before the governors late today.

The program included special drills and maneuvers showing what the student officers had learned in their three months' training. A luncheon for the guests of honor also was given.

If Secretary Baker and Major General Barry arrive tomorrow the same maneuvers probably will be repeated.

British Labor Will Send Men To Peace Meet At Stockholm

Delegates Declare Decision Is Most Momentous In History Of Labor Movement Since War Begun—No Peace To Be Made Until Complete Freedom From Aggression Of Militarism Is Guaranteed.

LONDON, AUG. 10.—The conference of the British labor party held at Westminster today voted to send delegates to the Stockholm consultative conference on the war by 1,046,000 to 55,000. The conference was in an uproar which ended only when the result of the card vote was announced.

Many of the delegates declared that the decision was the most momentous in the entire history of the labor movement since the war began.

The meeting conferences aroused much public interest. Large crowds assembled in the neighborhood, watching the arrival of the delegates who were admitted slowly owing to the close and double scrutiny of their credentials.

Wm. Purdy, chairman of the labor party presided and opened the conference by saying: "The labor movement has given its best to ensure to the entente allies a decisive victory over militarism, which has shown itself brutal in aplication and determined to extinguish all ideals of democracy and liberty.

Must Be Destroyed.

"Labor's inflexible resolution is to see justice done and reparation made and that still is the determination of the great masses of the industrial classes of the country and the colonies.

"No peace will be satisfactory unless it guarantees complete freedom from the aggression of militarism.

"Our Russian comrades need all the sympathy the labor party possibly can

Efforts To Mediate Car Strike Useless

(By Associated Press)

LIMA, AUG. 10.—Efforts on the part of the newly appointed safety director, Edward W. Hiner, to mediate between the striking carmen and the Ohio Electric Railroad Co. failed today after two conferences.

The strikers contended they had never received a definite proposition from the company.

No efforts will be made to operate cars tomorrow but service will be resumed Monday.

No further disorders occurred today. All saloons are closed and will continue closed Mayor Simpson said today, until order is restored.

Hearings for six men arrested as a result of Thursday's rioting has been deferred until tomorrow.

Government Takes Control Of Foods

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, AUG. 10.—The American government today assumed control of the country's food supply with the signing by President Wilson of the administration food survey and regulatory bills.

Formal announcement of Herbert Hoover's appointment as food administrator was made at the house soon after the measures were approved and tonight Hoover set forth the aims of the food administration declaring the purpose to be to stabilize and not to disturb conditions.

HIGH OFFICERS MAY NOT GO TO FOREIGN FRONT

Army Departmental Commanders Relieved Of National Army Cantonments —Order Will Keep Many In Commands At Home.

WASHINGTON, AUG. 10.—Army department commanders, by war department orders issued today, are relieved of the national army cantonments and national guard troops within their departments and will devote themselves entirely to the regular troops within their jurisdictions.

The effect of the order, unless there are changes in the high commands, will be to keep some of the best-known American commanders, such as Major General Wood, Major General J. Franklin Bell and others, in department commands at home, instead of sending them with the armies to Europe.

There are to be more than 200 new generals appointed within the next few days. It is, of course, possible that some of these or others might be assigned to the regular departments to permit sending the high-line officers with the fighting army.

Call Drafted Men Sept. 4

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, AUG. 10.—The date for calling the first increment of 200,000 men into the ranks of the national army may be changed from September 1 to September 4.

September 1 is followed by Sunday and Labor day and because of the heavy railroad traffic at that time draft officials fear the work of transporting the men might be interfered with.

Pomerene Would Rehabilitate Men

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, AUG. 10.—A bill appropriating $100,000,000 for camps to rehabilitate the men rejected for army service because of physical disabilities was introduced by Senator Pomerene today.

Officers would be assigned by the war department for the training of the men and they would be given such medical attention as is necessary until their physically disability has been removed.

TO PROVIDE GUARDS WITH FOOD FOR THE TRIP TO THE CAMP

A number of local men are fost[illegible] a movement to provide the members of Company I with home cooked food for use while enroute to their camp at Montgomery, Alabama.

One well known attorney in speaking of the project last night said: "A number of the boys have no parents or close relatives to extend this little kindness to them. When they board the train for the south, their rations will consist of canned goods, but if the people of the county would respond there is no reason why the boys should not have plenty of home cooked foods for their use while enroute.

"For one, I expect to contribute two or three chickens, potato salad and such dishes. The boys will appreciate this kindness as they are leaving home and acquaintances."

Others signified their intention of packing boxes of food for the guardsmen. It is planned to have enough boxes to provide for each guardsman, no one giving to any particular person but to the company as a unit.

Cyclist Hurt In Collision

Newton Dusenberry, aged 16, was severely bruised about the arm and lower limb last night when he collided with an auto driven by a Mr. Snedeker.

The accident occurred on Chestnut street. Dusenberry's wheel was demolished. Dusenberry was badly injured altho no bones were broken. The skin was torn from his arms and legs. He was taken to the office of Dr. Edmund Cone where he received medical attention.

SAY PACKERS CONSPIRE TO CORNER CROP

Federal Trade Commission Unearths Evidence That Three Big Canning Firms Would Corner California Tomatoes.

WASHINGTON, AUG. 10.—Evidence of a conspiracy among large packing interests to corner the entire tomato output of the Pacific coast has been discovered, it was said today at the offices of the federal trade commission.

The commission's investigators in California reported today that three large canning concerns are involved—Armour & Co., Morris & Co. and Libby, McNeil & Libby.

These companies, they declared, have attempted to purchase the entire California tomato crop from local canners and prices consequently are jumping.

Altho at 92 1-2 cents a dozen local canners are assured of a good profit, the three packing companies, according to the trade commission have sent the price up to $1.30 and higher. The retail price, investigators reports say, also is taking an upward turn.

Trade commission officials are of the opinion that the California situation should not appreciably affect prices in other parts of the country as the total California output is only one-twelfth of the entire country's pack.

1,079 Here Signed The Dry Petition

The following is the number of signatures secured in Southeastern Ohio counties to the petitions to initiate the state-wide Prohibition amendment as filed with the Secretary of State. Russell Hay Commissioned

Mr. and Mrs. Warner Hay, of North Seventh street, received word Friday that their son, Russell Glover Hay, who has been in the officers' training camp at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., has been commissioned as second lieutenant in the quartermaster's corps of the U. S. army.

Exemption Claims Will Be Appealed

Because of the large number of those claiming exemption on various grounds, Governor Cox has given instructions to all county prosecutors to appeal to the district board all exemptions of certain classes granted by the local boards.

Such instructions have been received here it is said, and provide that claims for exemption shall be appealed. Prosecutor Porter will also [illegible] any exemption claim appealed to the district board at Cambridge after being refused here.

Thomas Carton Joins Company I

Shortly after orders were received to admit of recruiting, Thomas Carton made application and was accepted as a member of Company I. Carton will join the company Monday. He is well known thru his connection with the Carton Shoe store.

Until further orders are received the local company will accept such men as recruits who have not been notified by the draft board to report for examination. It is expected that several young men will enlist within the next few days.

ONE GERMAN WHO KNOWS

However much the German people have been deceived as to the immediate cause of the war, the ruling classes in Germany entertain no delusions on that score. They know who ordered the blow struck and who timed it.

The speech of Haase, the leader of the Socialist minority in the Reichstag, shows that at least one German has not lost his mental balance. He is still able to distinguish truth from falsehood and to reason in a coherent way. He openly recognizes the fact that the war was not begun by Germany in a defensive way. Refusing mediation and arbitration, says Haase, she attacked. As to indemnities, Haase said that Germany is even now imposing war payments on Belgium, Roumania, Serbia, and Poland, and proposes to impose them on Russia proper if her armies advance.

As to annexations, Haase mentioned the fact that influential parties, including the Centre, have declared for the annexation of Belgium, and that Poland has been practically annexed—that Bulgaria proposes to keep Macedonia and the Dobrudja. As to freedom of the seas, Haase notes that it already exists in peace time and that Germany preferred war to freedom of the seas. So the Socialist leader goes down the list of German sophisms.

Germany's spokesmen thruout the war have only pretended. The statements they have given to the world from time to time have a ring of insincerity. The greatest pretension they have made is that of believing themselves.

Controlling the sources of public information thruout the empire, it is possible that they have succeeded largely in their attempt at deceiving the masses of the people. But the ruling oligarchy, the military clique and Junkerism generally, have not been deceived. Of that there can be no doubt.

These classes all know how and why the war was started. They know there is no moral defense for their attitude, not only at the outbreak of the war, but for years before. They know why Austria-Hungary attacked Serbia and why Germany poured her highly trained expectant millions into Belgium and France. They know equally well the circumstances attending the attack on Russia.

Even if they have fooled their own people, they know the world knows the whole story. It was not a war of defense and for this reason we have the spectacle of the Reichstag "peace" resolution beginning with a transparent falsehood.

SECRETARY LANE'S SUGGESTION

Secretary of the Interior, Franklin K. Lane, raised an important question when he offered the following suggestion to owners of land made valuable by government reclamation work:

> These 700,000 acres should be supporting 20,000 families this year, as well as supplying food for an army division at the front. They belong to private owners, and if they do not utilize their property, the time may not be far off when our national needs will require confiscation and government cultivation. No one is entitled to that which he does not use.

What the Secretary said is true enough, but why limit its application to a comparatively few land owners? There are tracts of unused land all the way from Maine to California, lying idle which could be producing not only food, but many other things badly needed.

But the land owners are not alone to blame for this state of affairs. Every State of the Union except ... has a tax system under which the man who makes use of his land is taxed more heavily than the one who leaves his land idle. ... is any chance at all of an ... land values the tax system encourages owners to withhold land ... for ... increment.

It is ... to scold land owners for doing what ... do. The proper course is to urge a change ... should be abolished and let all public ... land regardless of ... the man who improved his land ... owner would pay ... would ... .

... Single Tax ... is not ... that effect. ... he is he must realize that existing tax laws stand in the way of anything more than a limited application of his suggestion.

Peace hath her victories no less renowned than war. A number of our summer girl generals are boasting that they have gone thru the season so far without losing a single man.

While there is the widest divergence of opinion as to many of the war taxes proposed, there is general agreement in favor of the one that can be passed on to the consumer.

A question of major importance is, would those fat-rooted fellows they are rejecting make any poorer soldiers than that numerous body with cold feet they are accepting?

It now looks as if we wouldn't get our men into the trenches until after the hay fever season. And for that the Germans may well be glad.

If the piece work rule prevailed in congress instead of paying by the month it ought be that more and better work would be turned out.

Rural Carrier Examination

The United States Civil Service Commission has announced an examination to be held at Coshocton, at 10 a. m., on September 8 to fill the position of rural carrier at Tunnel Hill, and vacancies that may later occur on rural routes from other post offices in this county. The examination will be open only to male citizens who are actually domiciled in the territory of a post office in the county and who meet the other requirements set fourth in Form No. 1977. This form and application blanks may be obtained from the offices mentioned above or from the United States Civil Service Commission at Washington, D. C. Applications should be forwarded to the Commission at Washington at the earliest practicable date.

Ostrich Forcibly Fed.

The Zoological Society Bulletin remarks that refusal of food is generally the first symptom that an animal or bird is sick. The ostrich is one of the most provoking in this respect, and, if heroic measures be not adopted, soon becomes so thin as to become a prey to some really dangerous ailment.

A fine South African ostrich received from Arizona at the New York Zoological gardens in Bronx park last summer refused his breakfast on December 23, 1914. He showed no other symptoms of illness. A week passed and he began to look thin. Keeper George Snyder, at considerable personal risk, began a system of forcible feeding, ramming bolus after bolus of food wrapped in lettuce leaves down the throat of the unwilling bird.

This treatment was kept up for more than six weeks, and the ostrich became so accustomed to it that he ceased to resist. On February 6, 1915, he first evinced a willingness to feed himself, and within a short time his hunger strike was over.

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, tho, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a 50 cent bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. This is the old time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this thru your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

This preparation is a delightful toilet requisite and is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

Wisdom of the Second Generation.

"In the good old days, when I was a boy," states Gaunt N. Grimm, "and children were browbeaten until they were satisfied to be seen and not heard, it was easy for their elders to run the bluff all over them that because they were older they were necessarily wiser. But today, with the increase of decency in the treatment of children and the many avenues of enlightenment that are open to them that were not provided for me, it has got so the rising generation is positively overbearing in its smartness. The youngsters not only know more than I do, but they prove it on me so conclusively that at times I feel like going to live in the tree-grown wildwood in order to find company sufficiently ignorant to be congenial.—Kansas City Star.

HOMES OF THE STRAWBERRY

Eight Districts of the Country in Which the Succulent Fruit Is an Important Crop.

A survey of the production and marketing of strawberries in the United States made by the department of agriculture indicates that the eight most important commercial strawberry districts are central California, Tennessee, Maryland, Delaware, southern Louisiana, North and South Carolina, Virginia and the Ozarks.

Great quantities of strawberries, the report says, are also grown in the North in small patches and shipped to market by trolley, express or in the producer's own wagon.

The first strawberries of the year come from central Florida, the movement beginning in December and continuing until the end of March. By the first of March the first strawberries from southern Texas and southern California find their way to the market. About the middle of March the Louisiana crop begins to move, continuing about two months or until the middle of May.

By that time the season of carload shipments is at its height. The greater part of the Tennessee and Virginia crop is shipped in May, as well as much of the Delaware, Illinois and Maryland output.—Good Housekeeping Magazine.

DIVINE WORSHIP IN MINES

Workers Underground Are Afforded Places in Which They May Perform Religious Devotions.

In the Mynydd Newydd coal mines, in Wales, there is an "apartment" used exclusively as a place of worship. This underground chapel dates from a period of more than fifty years ago, since when it has always been used as a church, the miners assembling in this strange room every morning to perform their religious devotions.

The chapel is situated close to the bottom of the shaft, so that the miners, on descending the pit, can attend before proceeding to their various stations. The "apartment" lacks ornamentation or adornment, the pillars and beams supporting the roof being of rough wood. A disused coal trolley, turned on end, serves as a pulpit. The miners sit upon wooden benches placed across the chapel from side to side, and the oldest worker of the mine performs the duty of pastor.

In the salt mine at Wieliczka, Austria, there is a chapel of St. Anthony, a Byzantine excavation, supported by columns, with altar, crucifix and life-size statues of saints, apparently in black marble, but in reality made of salt.

Keep Schoolroom Ventilated.

More woman patients, three to one, are sent to hospitals than men. This comes in large degree from the fact that women live indoors and breathe a dust-laden, second-hand atmosphere.

If this is true of housekeepers, how doubly true it is of school teachers!

Teachers suffer from brain fag, not because teaching itself is depleting, but because the average schoolroom is badly ventilated.

The Gentleman From Cupidville

By ALAN HINSDALE

One spring morning when the buds were opening Howard Lane, a young New Yorker, left his room on Central Park West and, entering the park, strolled along the mall smoking a cigarette. Presently he looked up at a man passing him and saw that he was the very counterpart of himself. Each stopped and stared at the other.

"Upon my word!"

"By Jove!"

"You're myself, only better looking," said Lane.

"Permit me to return the compliment."

"You must be a near blood relation of mine. What is your name?"

"Spencer—Raymond Spencer. And yours?"

"Howard Lane. Come; let us sit down on one of the benches and compare notes. I don't remember any Spencer connections."

"Nor I any Lanes."

The two passed an hour together, each now and again looking up at the other in wonder, almost fancying he had a mirror before him; but, while they were identical in face and figure, they soon noticed that they were very unlike in disposition. Lane was philosophical, analytical, critical, cynical—indeed, everything that ends in al—but he was a man of intellectual vigor. Spencer was an optimist and very shallow. He was on his way from San Francisco to Europe.

"I have an idea," said Lane.

"How does it feel?"

"You are a stranger to me, but you are a gentleman. I'm going to take you into my confidence. I'm in love."

"Poor fellow! Is it more bother than having an idea?"

"I have been unsuccessful with the lady. She likes me, but says I'm too 'dead and alive' for a life companion."

"Why not turn her over to me?"

"That's just what I'm thinking of."

A bargain was made, and when the two left the park they went to Lane's rooms, where Spencer was put in temporary possession of the owner's wardrobe. That evening Mr. Spencer appeared at the residence of Miss Margaret Thorne and sent up Mr. Lane's card. Miss Thorne came down with a settled purpose. That purpose was to give her lover his final quietus.

"I have been thinking over the matter between us," she said, "and have come to the conclusion that I am wrong in permitting you to hope. A man who has reasoned himself into the belief that 'life is but an empty dream' I could not be happy with. I will never be yours."

The man grasped the back of a chair for support and brushed back his hair dramatically.

"Too late!" he exclaimed in the tone of one for whom the bottom had dropped out of his life.

"Have you a cold?" asked Miss Thorne, surprised, especially at the tone of his voice, which was deeper than usual. She was still more surprised when her lover rushed toward her and, seizing her hand, poured forth an impassioned appeal.

"Until our last meeting," he said, "I did not realize that you were right and I was wrong. Life is not an empty dream, and you have made me see it. 'Life is real, life is earnest.' I had resolved to throw off the depressing philosophy by which I have been bewitched. I had set a goal—under your inspiration—determined to do or die. We need one gentleman in political affairs. I had resolved to enter upon a career which, beginning with the state legislature, might end in the White House. But, alas, without you I am powerless! Nevertheless I shall go abroad and sink away into a degenerate globe trotter."

"What has come over you?" she asked.

"Your influence. It has had its effect at last."

"Mr. Lane—Howard, I cannot understand this sudden change. Do you mean all you say?"

"I swear it."

Looking up, he saw a puzzled, undecided look on her face. Rising, he clasped her in his arms, and, while she turned away her face, she did not struggle to be released. In three minutes ten she ordered she had promised to be his wife.

The next morning the two counterparts sat in Lane's room. Spencer was smoking; Lane was reading a note from Miss Thorne. It was to say that a previous engagement prevented her seeing him till the next evening. "I cannot realize my happiness," she added, "in the love of a man of your ability inspired by that love for me. I predict a great career for you."

Spencer had enacted to his counterpart the scene between himself and Miss Thorne, and Lane asked him to enact it again and again. Then Spencer personated the lady, and Lane enacted the lover's part himself. Thus coached, he felt quite able to carry on the work his double had so auspiciously commenced. Convinced that to be a philosophic dreamer would cost him the girl he loved and to be up and doing is the better part for every man, he was thoroughly alive to carrying out the program as Spencer had pictured it. He has already reached a conspicuous position in the government of his state. As to reaching the White House, that remains to be determined.

Spencer sailed for Europe a few days after he had won the lady for his double and is now the degenerate globe trotter he pictured himself.

Found.

Mrs. X. lost her cook and had telephoned in vain for another. Dinner guests were expected and she was desperate. Finally, putting on her things, she went out, and she hadn't gone far when she met a neat-looking colored woman. She explained her dilemma and the colored woman listened in silence, then she said: 'Where do yo' live, missus?"

Seeing a ray of hope joyfully, Mrs. X. gave her address, to be met with the reply:

Had Not Noticed Any Improvement.

"Lessn one shawt yeah ago, bruddren and sistahs," dramatically declared Brother Rogus, during the experience meeting, "I was a mizzable wretch, wadin' in de slough o' sin and wallerin' in de sasspole o' 'nickerty! I loved de wrong and hated de right! I lied, I stole, I cheated, and was de most contaminated scon'l in dis town! But now, bruddren and sistahs, what do yo' s'pose brung about de change?"

Distillers Buy Corn To Sell To Govt. At High Market Prices

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Government agents have discovered that distillers of the country, anticipating the prohibition feature of the food administration bill and probability that the government will take over all distilled liquors at cost, plus 10 per cent, have been buying up corn in vast quantities and converting it into liquors, hoping to unload it on the government at fancy prices.

Disclosure of the unusual activity of the distillers has been made to the food administration and other government departments. The buying campaign has been in progress a month, while congress let the food bill fight drag on, and great quantities of liquor have been manufactured in record time, in order to get huge stocks on hand before the law prohibiting the use of grains in distillates becomes effective.

One distiller has written the government in response to queries on the subject, frankly stating that he is manufacturing all he can possibly produce in advance of the legal ban on his business.

It appears from information gathered by government agents that distillers have been converting all the corn possible into liquor and taking a chance on the president's sense of fair play, which would lead him to allow them the cost price with a fair profit of 10 per cent. By paying fancy prices for corn and thus boosting the cost, distillers could claim big profits on a cost plus percentage profit basis.

Government experts have learned that the price paid for distillery corn has ranged from $2 to $2.25. The buying by the liquor men in the open market, they figure, will advance the price finally to $4 or more, when the distillers will make representations to the government that they expect will result in their being reimbursed at the top price.

BRITISH LABOR

give them and there is no question of a separate peace. We must stand shoulder to shoulder until a righteous peace is obtained. We are sure our Russian comrades are not going to exchange a hard won freedom for a sham one under the heel of Prussian militarism.

"The invitation to attend the Stockholm conference deserves careful consideration, as the decision called for is probably the most important in the history of the labor movement."

Henderson Speaks.

Arthur Henderson, labor member of the British war council, who was cheered when he rose to speak before the vote was taken, said:

"I address the conference with a deep sense of my own responsibility. It must be borne in mind that the situation in Russia is constantly changing. Otherwise injustice will be done to the merits of the case. Before I was sent to Russia I opposed the holding of an ordinary conference. On my arrival in Petrograd, however, I met the executives of the Council of Workmens and soldiers' delegates and in view of the conditions of public opinion, I intimated to them that if they were prepared to change the conference from an obligatory to a consultative one, I would recommend that the British labor movement reverse its previous decision and make consultation possible. That position I maintain.

Not Understood in Russia.

"The Russians wanted a binding conference to actually discuss peace terms. I made it clear that if our representatives participated there could be no question of negotiating terms. Our case is not properly understood in Russia to this day and to have refused point blank to consider the question would have done incalculable harm. The Russians still insist upon a binding conference. British labor would be placed in a most dangerous position by sending delegates to such a meeting."

SICK LIST.

Miss Florence K. Powelson who is ill at her home on North Eighth street was reported improved last evening.

Is Starter at Randall

Frank Walker, probably the best known race official in the world, will act in the capacity of starting judge at the coming North Randall Grand Circuit meeting that will be held at the famous Cleveland oval the week of Aug. 13.

Walker is an able official and in great demand, not only on the mile tracks, but on the half mile circuits. [illegible] few years he has found [illegible] a trifle exacting [illegible] services to only [illegible] tracks, and the fact that the North Randall track has been successful in engaging Walker means that the Cleveland meeting will be conducted on its usual exceptionally high plane.

The Optimist.

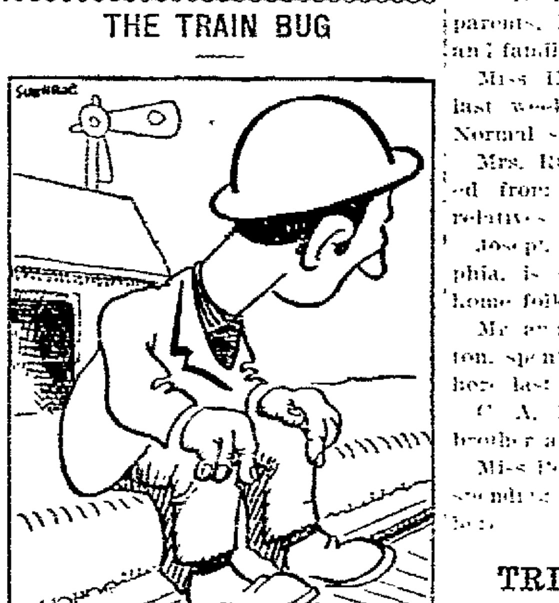

On the whole, poets do not seem to have too good a time of it. It is rather rare for an editor to see eye to eye with them in regard to the quality of their work.

Percival Fliptop had had his work "turned down" by five editors in succession, and was now being told the cold and bitter truth by the sixth. His rage got the better of him.

"Some day," he burst out, "you editors will be fighting for my work."

"Never mind," chortled he of the hard heart. "When that day comes, even if I lose, I'll be just as happy!"—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Suffs Display Another Banner

WASHINGTON, AUG. 10.—A banner displayed at one of the White House gates by a woman's party suffrage picket addressed to "Kaiser Wilson" was torn down today after an indignant crowd had jeered and hissed the suffragist for several minutes.

The banner was carried by Miss Lucy Burns, who figured in several of the previous demonstrations in front of the White House. It was inscribed:

"Kaiser Wilson—Have you forgotten your sympathy with the poor Germans because they are not self-governed. Twenty million American women are not self-governed. Take the beam out of your own eye."

It immediately drew a crowd which gave free voice to its indignation. There was no concerted attack on Miss Burns, but James P. Delaney, a navy department clerk, tore the banner from the pole, shot out thru the crowd and up Pennsylvania avenue before any one could touch him. He was not pursued.

ICE CREAM SOCIAL.

An ice cream social will be held at the Franklin Grange hall near Wills Creek Saturday evening.

YOU'LL LOOK BETTER wearing a pair of our glasses, if you need glasses at all, than you do without them. They will take away the strained look about the eyes and forehead and will be mounted to harmonize with your features perfectly. So if your appearance is the only reason for neglecting your sight, don't do it any longer.

MADE A MATTER OF BARTER

John Wanted Contract to Be Explicit as to the Ownership of Those Trousers.

A village clergyman in England, walking round his parish, met an old parishioner. "Well, John," he said, "how is it I have not seen you at church for several Sundays?" "Hain't got no Sunday trousers," answered John. "Well," said the clergyman, "I think we can remedy that. I have a pair at home which will just about fit you, and I will have them sent to you today. "Thank'ee!" said John. The trousers were duly sent, and the following three Sundays John was seen at church. Then, after being absent for some time, the clergyman again met him. "Well, John," he said, "you have no excuse for not coming to church lately. How is it I have not seen you there?" "Look here, parson!" said John. "I like a man to speak plain. I know what you mean; you're a-thinking about them trousers. I come to church three Sundays, an', if you don't think I earned them trousers, just tell me how many more Sundays I shall ha' to come afore they're mine altogther!"

STANDARD NEVER TOO HIGH

Well for a Man to Report to Himself Occasionally, to See If He Is Headed Right.

Look here, Mr. Man, what is the use in trying to deceive yourself about some of those mean little characteristics which cling to you?

Why should you try to make yourself believe that you're not so bad as you are. "Our family has a pretty good name; I guess if everyone were as good as we are, this world wouldn't be so bad." Yes, you'll hear this remark; and you'll know that the speaker will never be any better than his ideals.

A great chef told his class that if they had ever tasted a dish better than the one they had prepared, theirs was not good. He did not say, "Be content that you don't find many dishes better than yours."

A man is no better than his standard, and if his standard is the best in all the world, it is none too good.

Don't deceive yourself. You have a real job on your hands.

If you are not convinced of the fact, try to break yourself of certain mean little traits that crop out occasionally. Once you realize how persistently they return you'll be surprised.

Put yourself on probation for a while. Report to yourself at intervals, and see if you haven't a job as your own probation officer.—Exchange.

BEAUTIFUL IN ALL SEASONS

Marvelous This Land of Ours, to Those Endowed With the Proper Sense of Appreciation.

A marvelous sweet thing, when all was said—this land! Changing its sheen and texture, the feel of its air, its very scent, from day to day. This land with its billion offspring of flowers and flying folk; its majestic and untiring march of seasons.

Spring and its wistful ecstasy of saplings, and its yearning, wild, wind loosened heart; gleam and song, blossom and cloud, and the swift white rain; each unfurled leaf so little and so glad to flutter, each wood and field so full of peeping things. Summer! Ah! summer, when on the solemn old trees the long days shone and lingered, and the glory of the meadows and the murmur of life and the scent of flowers bewildered tranquillity, till surcharge of warmth and beauty brooded into dark passion, and broke. And autumn, in mellow haze down on the fields and woods; smears of gold already on the beeches, smears of crimson on the rowans, the apple trees still burdened, and a flax-blue sky wellnigh emerging with the misty air; the cattle browsing in the lingering golden stillness; not a breath to fan the blue smoke of the weed fires—and in the fields no one moving—who would disturb such mellow peace? And winter! The long spaces, the long dark; and yet—and yet, what delicate loveliness of twig tracery; what blur of rose and brown and purple caught in the bare boughs and in the early sunset sky! What sharp dark flights of birds in the gray-white firmament!

Who cared what season held in its arms this land that had bred them all.—From "The Freelands" by John Galsworthy in Scribner's Magazine.

GARTER SNAKE MOST COMMON

Classification Embraces Eleven Species of the Best-Known Creatures of the Reptilian World.

The garter snake, genus eutaenia, is our most numerous variety, embracing eleven well-defined species, including the beautifully-marked ribbon snake. This group defies extinction even in the most populated regions, being plentiful in city parks, writes Arthur H. Fisher in the Philadelphia Record. They are viviparous, bringing forth as many as sixty living young each year. They feed entirely on cold-blooded prey, tadpoles and frogs being their main diet. The variation in color is frequent in the same species, but they are easily recognized by the general scheme of their markings. Thriving for years in captivity, they make the most interesting study specimens. The common variety, eutaenia sirtalis, is numerous.

Their nearest relatives, the water snakes, genus tropidonotus, so glee fully stoned by the country boy, are very numerous and are found in large numbers sunning themselves along the banks of creeks and ponds. They are nearly always dark brown in color, with transverse markings. They feed on frogs and fish and show wonderful dexterity in capturing their quarry. The large brown water snake, tropidonotus taxispilotus, grows to great size, and is much confused with the poisonous moccasin, ancistrodon piscivorus, owing partly to the fact that it is found basking on the same logs with the deadly "cottonmouth."

Cosmopolitan Nation.

The Roumanian is a lover of the mountains and the woods. It is, indeed, to the peaks and forests of the Carpathians that he owes his national existence.

Isolated in them, the Roumanian has clung more tenaciously to the ways and customs of his ancestors than any of the Latin races, and it is said that today his language contains more pure Latin words than the Italian. He is a composite nationality, however. About twenty towns and villages of Roumania have been positively identified by archeologists as of Roman origin, but there were Dacians in the land before the Romans and other racial stocks have left their mark on the language and character of the people.

Duty Demands Robust Health

Fight to get it and keep it

Fight—fight day in and day out to prevent being overtaken by ills and ails. Keep wrinkles from marring the cheek and the body from losing its youthful appearance and buoyancy. Fight when ill-health is coming with its pallor and pains, defects and declining powers. Fight to stay its coarse and drive it off.

But fight intelligently. Don't fight without weapons that can win the day for without the intelligent use of effective weapons the pallor spreads and weakness grows and a seemingly strong man or woman ofttimes becomes a pray to ills after all.

You will not find this class of persons in the hypoferrin ranks. No unhealthy, dull, draggy, droopy persons in that line. It is a hale, hearty, robust aggregation of quick steppers who view life in a joyous frame of mind and are mentally and physically equal to any emergency. Hypoferrin stands for sound body and sound mind—it is the invigorating tonic of the times—powerful and unsurpassed as a health restorer, vitalizer and health preserver. Fight to hold the vigor of a sound body with hypoferrin or to stay the process of decay and restore health and strength—you win. This tonic of amazing, wonder-working properties has been approved by physicians as a restorer and safeguard of health. It is a thoroughly scientific preparation of the very elements necessary to tone up the stomach and nerves, to build strong, vital tissue, make pure blood, firm flesh and solid, active, tireless muscles.

Hypoferrin contains those mighty strength-producing agents, lecithin and iron peptonate, in a form best adapted to benefit the body and its organs. Its ingredients are absolutely necessary to the blood. In nine cases out of ten a run-down condition, sallow, pale complexions that "all in" feeling and frail bodies are due to lack of lecithin-and-iron peptonate in the system.

Your mental and physical strength and endurance depends upon a lecithin-and-iron peptonate laden blood; steady, dependable nerves and a healthy stomach With these you can meet life at any angle.

This wonder tonic, hypoferrin, which is as perfect as science can get to nature, meets every essential demand of the human organism. It is safe and sure and a boon to run-down, worn-out men and women. Hypoferrin means nature's own way of bringing color to the cheeks, strength to the body and keeping the vigor and buoyancy of youth. The powder and paint way of effecting beauty is not needed by hypoferrin women and girls. Their blood, filled with nature's beauty stores, creates conditions that give firmness and grace to the body and the glow of health to the cheeks.

No need of going through life sickly and always feeling miserable in this age of medical science. Join the hypoferrin ranks. It puts into you the springy snap and vigor you ought to have and puts life into your body and mind that inspires the confidence that you confront the world on an equal footing with all ...

Hypoferrin may be had at your druggist's or direct from us for $1 a package. It is well worth the price. The Sentanel Remedies Co., Cincinnati, Ohio

Why the Stars Twinkle.

Although the twinkling of the stars is commonly referred to, they do not twinkle at all. The stars are really suns that throw out light, just as our sun lights the earth.

When the rays of light from the stars strike the air which surrounds the earth they have to pierce many little particles which are always floating about in the atmosphere. It is this interference between us and the source of light which gives the appearance of twinkling.

On certain nights the light of the stars will appear so bright and clear as to attract particular attention. This is because the air is so clear there is less interference than usual with the rays of light in reaching the earth.

A Question of Time.

She was a young and pretty girl of a sporting turn of mind. Somehow she heard that a certain horse was to win a certain race, and, deciding to indulge in a little speculation, she went to a "bookie" and put a dollar on for a win, asking how much she would get if it came off.

"If it starts at 20 to 1 you will get $21 back," said the bookie; "if at 10 to 1, $11 back; if at 5 to 1, you'll get $6 back."

"I see," said the maiden, "and if it starts at 1 o'clock, how much do I get then."

IF KIDNEYS FEEL LIKE LEAD OR YOUR BACK HURTS, TAKE SALTS

We eat too much meat, which clogs Kidneys, then Back hurts and Bladder bothers you.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

Studious Girl Neglects Her Hair.

I heard Max O'Rell ... tell the story of a young lady who acquired three languages who ... her hair, said a prominent ... man. Then she trotted her three languages round, and found to her surprise that no one seemed particularly anxious to engage her. They really could not stand the look of her head. She discovered the cause of her failure at last, when one very irritable old gentleman she called on told her that he would prefer one language to three if a brush and comb were thrown in with the one. She had sacrificed habits of tidiness to the attractions of irregular verbs.

Life and Death.

The final use of the greatest men of a nation is, after all, not with reference to their deeds in themselves or their direct bearing on their times or lands. The final use of a heroic, eminent life—especially of heroic, eminent death—is its indirect filtering into the nation and the race and to give, often at many removes, but unerringly, age after age, color and fiber to the personalism of the youth and maturity of that age and of mankind. . . . The dramatic deaths of every nationality are its most important inheritance value—in some respects beyond its literature and art.—Walt Whitman.

His "Personal Devil."

We have been told about a prominent business man of Cleveland who "got religion," as the phrase hath it. Billy Sunday hadn't been there, and no sawdust trail of heaven had been laid out. But this fellow was convinced of sin, nevertheless.

After that, though he didn't become a saint, he remembered his conversion. Whenever he fell from grace, which was often, he said: "That wasn't I—it was the devil." And he got so used to laying his sins on Satan that he got to be a pest. So one day a neighbor asked him:

"How does it come that whenever you do anything wrong you blame it on the Devil?"

"Well, gee whiz!" answered the saved soul. "Ain't that what he's for?"

Nothing to Worry About.

The man who had been eating oysters off the half shell stopped long enough to eject a hard substance, which dropped to the floor and rolled under the counter.

"What's that?" asked the man on the next seat. "A pearl?"

And the other nonchalantly replied: "Nope; tooth!"—Judge.

Red Cross Knows No Nationality Among The Wounded Troops

WASHINGTON, D. C., AUG. 10.—Many questions have arisen as to the attitude of the American Red Cross toward Germans wounded on the battlefield, and also toward Americans of German origin affiliating themselves with Red Cross hospital units going abroad. To make clear the attitude of the Red Cross, Henry P. Davison, Chairman of the War Council, authorizes the following statement:

When war was declared between the United States and Germany, the neutrality of the American Red Cross of course ended automatically. The American Red Cross can co-operate only behind the lines of the armies of the United States and its allies.

But the Red Cross knows no such thing as the nationality of a wounded man. Any wounded enemy turned over to the care of the American Red Cross will receive as kindly treatment as any friend.

The Red Cross will not only extend every aid and comfort to the armies of America and its allies, but it will assist in every possible way the sick, wounded and afflicted among the civilian populations among our allied countries. This is in conformity with the practice of the Red Cross Society in every country.

As to the policy of the Red Cross in this country toward those of German origin:

Insofar as base hospital units are concerned, the Red Cross equips and enlists the personnel of those to be sent to Europe to operate not only with our own armies but with those of our allies. Once enlisted and mustered into service, these units become part of the Army of the United States, and there is of course no discrimination by the Red Cross or the American Army against any loyal American citizen, no matter of what national origin.

Our allies in Europe, however, have requested the American State Department not to permit persons born in enemy countries, or of parents born in an enemy country, to travel as civilians in any of the Allied countries. Representations, however, have been made by the Red Cross, which it is hoped will ultimately prove effective, whereby loyal American citizens on Red Cross service, may be exempted from the operation of this rule, no matter what the country of their origin.

The Red Cross wants it clearly understood that it welcomes the co-operation of every loyal American, and that it does not regard that loyalty as measured by the country of his origin.

Life More Popular With The Ohioans

Life is becoming more popular in Ohio. Fewer people dissatisfied with this world left it voluntarily during the past year than the preceding year, so official figures of Secretary of State W. D. Fulton show.

There were 417 suicides in the state during the year ending June 30, as compared with 423 for the year before. Of those who took their lives in the past year 85 were women, two less than for the year before.

While suicides fell off, murders took a big jump, there having been 279 murders, an increase of 113 over the year before. There were 211 men and 45 women killed in this way. The year before there were 113 men and 33 women killed.

Fatal accidents show a big increase. There was 1914—1692 men and 222 women—killed during the year, as compared with 1616—1395 men and 223 women—for the year before. These accidents are cases in which the coroner was called.

Contrary to a general impression, intemperance is increasing. Excessive use of liquor caused 122 deaths during the past year, as compared with 78 for the year before.

FRENCH OFFICERS GET FRIED CHICKEN DINNER

AMERICAN TRAINING CAMP IN FRANCE, AUG. 10.—Taking advantage of a half holiday, Wednesday afternoon, one of the American regiments training in France entertained its French instructors at a field luncheon or picnic in one of the most ruggedly picturesque spots in the entire American army camp.

The men all shared alike in being fed from the big field kitchens. They sat on the grass, ate together and carried on a lively conversation despite the difference in tongue. There were many good things to eat, cooked in American fashion, but the French soldiers seemed to enjoy most of all the homemade white bread which was served from the American field bakeries.

The French officers were given a particular treat in the way of fried chicken, country style. The afternoon was a great success and marked a still closer amity between the American and French armies. When the luncheon was at its height one French officer enthusiastically exclaimed: "Oh! If the boys could only see us now!"

The American soldiers have a half holiday each Wednesday. This is in lieu of a half holiday Saturday, for it has been found that Saturday noon to Monday morning is too long an interval to be away from work.

The deepest impression one gains after three weeks with the American soldiers in France is the absolute earnestness with which the splendid young men of the army have undertaken the task which is before them. There is no disposition on their part or on the part of their officers to underestimate in any way the seriousness of their task and the hard work which remains to be done before America can take her place in the actual firing line.

JAIL GERMAN EDITOR AS AN ALIEN ENEMY

ST PAUL, MINN., AUG 10—Dr. Lim as a general.

Fritz Bergmeier, president of the St. Paul VoViks Zeitung, was arrested today under the president's proclamation of April 6. The policy of the Volks Zeitung has been to "treat aspects on by innuendo" on American war measures, it was charged.

Reflections on General Pershing were among articles in the Volks Zeitung found objectionable, it is understood.

Pershing, according to the Volks Zeitung was "popular with the boys" and had the known qualities of a diplomat, but had "done nothing to mark

Will Be Held As Enemy.

United States District Attorney Alfred Jacques said there will be no trial and that the editor will be held as an enemy alien until President Wilson orders his release.

The law of the proclamation which Bergmeier is charged with violating reads:

"An alien enemy shall not write, print or publish any attacks or threats against the government or congress of the United States, or either branch thereof, or against the measures or policy of the United States."

District Attorney Jacques, to whom the order was transmitted, declined to discuss the case in detail. He said the information leading to the order for Bergmeier's detention reached Washington through private sources.

Bergmeier's arrest is the first in St. Paul under the alien enemy proclamation and it is said is the first of the steps to be taken to suppress pro-German activities in this section.

He Calls It A Mistake.

"I believe this arrest is a mistake," said Bergmeier in an interview at the county jail. "Since this war began I have endeavored to have my statements the paper has made very conservative. I have gone over all the copy and have tried to make it conform to the federal regulations.

"I have been in St. Paul twelve years, virtually all the time since coming to America from Germany. A year and a half ago I took out my first naturalization papers and that I am not fully naturalized is due only to neglect on my part. I always have intended to make this country my home."

Court Plasters Are Confiscated

CLEVELAND, AUG. 10.—Detectives today raided the room of a man suspected of being a German agent, confiscated a half bushel of court plasters and arrested the man.

Federal officers said clues to the man's identity came from many points in the United States. The plasters will be tested for tetanus germs.

Coal Dealers Extort Profit

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, AUG. 10.—Charges that bituminous coal dealers are exacting extortionate profits from consumers under the so-called Peabody agreement were made today before th federal trade commission by Clifford Horne.

The trade commission gave the hearing in connection with their investigation of prices.

As the best means of dealing with the situation he urged immediate abandonment of price fixing negotiations with coal operators and the establishment under the Lever bill of a reasonable maximum price.

Frank Ashman Finishes Tour

Frank Ashman, ex-probate judge, returned to the city Friday morning after lecturing for the Colt-Aller bureau for the past few weeks. Mr Ashman lectured at Millersburg last night. He will resume his legal practice Monday.

How Edward Can Draw.

Edward was showing Miss Brown how well he could draw a cow. As he drew, he glanced from time to time at a cow grazing in a nearby yard.

"This is her nose," he said, drawing a curved line.

"Here's her body," he explained, and after a look at his model he added another curved line.

"Now here's her tail," and he placed a curved line opposite the so-called nose.

As he held the finished drawing up for inspection, an embarrassed smile spread over his countenance.

"Perhaps we'd better call it a pump," he said.—Youth's Companion.

COAL MEN FIRST TO FEEL LAW'S WEIGHT

WAASHINGTON, AUG. 10.—Coal operators and coal dealers are likely to be the first against whom the drastic provision of the food and fuel control bill will be enforced when that measure becomes a law with the signature of the president tomorrow.

Under authority granted in this bill by the Pomerene amendment, the trade commission, by direction of the president, has the power to take over coal properties operated by men who will not play fair in this war and who are persisting in charging exorbitant prices.

The president, it was flatly asserted today by an official thoroly familiar with what is going on behind the scenes, has already directed the trade commission what to do. He has told it to leave nothing undone to bring offending and money-grasping coal dealers and associations to terms. He is known to have told the commission that it needs no further authority from him to apply the most drastic action permitted under the Pomerene amendment to coal men and operators' associations who will not yield to reason in this crisis.

This means that the president already has instructed the board to go the limit, if its judgment dictates that seizure of coal mines is warranted in any case. The president is said to have added that if the commission, for any reason, has hesitancy about taking radical action, it has but to send him word and he will give an order in writing.

The president is declared by close official associates to be thorcly aroused over facts disclosed with reference to some of the coal men of the country in the investigation into costs conducted by the trade commission. Much of its exhaustive report already has reached the president, and it is declared to disclose that coal prices are not only abnormal, but, in many instances, outrageous under existing conditions.

Several coal associations, it is declared, are under particular investigation and are said to have met the trade commission with an attitude of defiance.

On the other hand, some of the coal men have demonstrated unusual patriotism in aiding the commission with disclosures.

As soon as the food bill is signed, it is declared the trade commission is going to confront the coal producers with a set of conditions upon which prices and contracts will be based. If any then show defiance, an official said today, "they are going to get trouble, and get it quick."

Remove Draft Board Members
